

ESF report

A: The story

Project name:	Survival Skills
Responsible organization and person(s):	Scout Lake Group Pioneer – Ohrid Project coordinator: Nikolche Kostoski
Introduction to the project:	The guide to the beginner Survival has been printed and is ready for active use and assistance in carrying out activities in nature. The participants of this project also organized a three day camp in nature where they used and acquired survival skills (wood cutting, water purification, food selection, game hunting, shelter building, extraction of injured person and movement on an unknown terrain) This training was organized at a much higher level with approximately realistic scenarios that can happen to us when we are in nature and come across some unexpected circumstances, as well as their elimination and successful survival in nature.
Objectives and goals:	Printing the handbook, organizing a camp where they will acquire all the survival skills that can be practically received in the future on a competition or survival, camping skills, finding food in nature and selection, as well as its proper consumption and avoiding situations that can sometimes be dangerous. The goal of this project is that more young people get involved in nature and learn their good and bad sides and how to cope when they come across a survival situation from the already written and printed handbook for surviving beginners.
To which extent did we meet objectives and goals:	The whole of this project, as planned, is fully aligned with all the planned activities at the appropriate locations and necessary equipment. All the activities were performed according to the planned time, with all the materials we needed at our disposal, and finally successful evaluation from the participants who themselves say how much this project was beneficial and from the help for their upgrading and acquiring new skills. The tradition continues, such events for survival in nature and acquiring survival skills will be organized every year with the help and support of the Scout Association of Macedonia. By organizing such events, the program part of the scouts will be enriched, which will help them determine in the future what they want to work and upgrade both on a professional and a private plan. At the writing stage, there is also a “Nutrition guide in nature” that we hope will be completed and promoted by the end of this year.

What did we learn from the project:	“The guide to the beginner Survival” has already motivated young scouts to become more involved in this area and to discover themselves and develop their physical and psychological abilities in the event of survival in nature, and above all to convey their new experience to new scouts who are actively involved day by day on the world's largest movement.

B: Financial report in brief

		Brief description	Amount in EURO
Income:	Own resources:	Food for 30 participants	100
	Other funding:	/	0
	ESF funding:	/	500
	Other income:	/	0
Expenses;	Administration:	Bank provision, papers, call cards	35
	Travel:	Gas fuel for car	50
	Materials spent:	Rope, nylon,	80
	Materials lasting:	Axe,swan, scout scarf, kife, amblems, and Guide for beginners Survival (50 pieces)	335
	Accommodation and food for participants:	Food for 30 participants	100
	Trainers and facilitators accommodation:	/	0
	Trainers and facilitators travel:	/	0
Net result:		ESF Funding + Own resources	500 + 100
		Total	600 EURO

Thank you FOSE for all support and help around this project. This story has a successful ending.

